Great Culture

Pricing Specialist (Former Employee) - Melbourne Australia - October 31, 2018

Great Culture, friendly management and limited office politics. Salary is lower than what other companies would offer for the same role. Overall great place to work.

Fun workplace

Pricing Analyst (Consultant) (Former Employee) - Park Ridge, NJ - December 3, 2013

Learned a lot about the car rental industry that I didnt know before. The young diverse colleagues made it interesting to come into work each day

The workplace is normally quite relaxed and informal and the diverse backgrounds and different nationalities of the workforce contribute towards an even more positive environment.

I have had the pleasure of working with highly-skilled and knowledgeable people, who have been at Hertz for over 20 years and are an invaluable asset for the business, as well as a precious source of information and help for the younger and less experienced team members.

In my opinion the awareness of the importance of working for a global leader in the sector has a positive effect on employees' performance. If you engage with the business concept and fully appreciate what it takes to become, and maintain such a prestigious position in a very competitive market, you will then strive for excellence in your role, you will enjoy even more and perhaps lay the foundation for what could be a brilliant and fulfilling career in the organisation.

We should also recognise and appreciate that Hertz have been able to absorb relatively well the external shocks associated with the recession, thus avoiding the need for restructuring or downsizing.

On the whole, a job at Hertz certainly is a valuable working experience at any level and it might well be a job for life to some and/or the start of a brilliant career for others (not all!)

CONS

Goes without saying that large organisations result in heavy bureaucracy that can slow down the decision making process. Hertz might appear to have bureaucracy in place that lacks in internal transparency and fairness, but it - more...

Great people to work with, lots of culture change, hard to advance quickly

Contract Pricing Analyst, Hertz Equipment Rental (Current Employee) - Park Ridge, NJ - May 13, 2013

Days can be usually long, but its up to you to really manage your time. There is plenty of work but not enough people. Management is great, work well with their direct reports. Upper Management is very tough, but will consistently challenge you. Very diverse so you can fit in one way or another.

Great environment

Pricing Analyst (Current Employee) - Park Ridge, NJ - February 21, 2013

The corporate headquarters at Hertz is a great place to take on responsibility and make a segment of the business your own.
